The Ivy Ball Tonight at the University of Pennsylvania Will Be Held at Weighman Hall—A Large Attendance Is Expected

THE world and his wife will attend the annual Ivy Ball at the University of Pennsylvania this evening, for it will be a most sumptuous affair. The ballroom at Weighman Hall will be transferred into an Hawaiian scene, covering the entire ceiling will be a canopy of blue to simulate the sky, on which there will be numerous stars and a crescent moon. The lighting effect will be from below by means of incandescent lights and spotlights will flood the sky. Then the two side walls of the gymnasium will be covered with paintings to represent Hawaiian beach scenes, with hazy volcanoes towering in the distance. Another new feature will be that in place of the balustrade, which is usually employed to make a promenade on either side of the room, a small hill, fashioned of palms and festoons will be made.

Its series of midwinter dances tonight at the clubhouse, on Llandrillo road, which will be effectively decorated with palms and flowers. Mrs. Jesse Keyhouse and Mrs. Edward W. West Philadelphia Miss Edith J. Blair, of 75 South 50th street, formerly of Prospect Park, was the guest of honor at a party given last Saturday evening at the home of Miss Anne Cross, of Norwood.

An amusing story reached my ears yesterday about a well-known lad of this town, who now and again approved of having a good little time all to himself, and did not mind occasionally having some one of the fair sex enjoy this good little time with him. As he walked up Walnut street on various occasions, he noticed an extremely smart-looking girl, who did not show any great indignation when he finally spoke to her after meeting her many times; so they talked, and then he suggested that some evening they might have supper together at one of the hotels, to which she acquiesced with alacrity. Well, the evening came, and the lady met him at one of our foremost hotels and they had a cozy little supper together. The fair damsel was most exquisitely frocked, and the youth began to scent a mystery and romance, thinking she must be one of the few 400 he had not happened to meet at the different parties. Soon, however, a woman came in with a party of friends for supper, and let me whisper it to you, she is one of the most prominent women in the town. She looked over at our easy youth, and began to laugh, though she bowed very sweetly to him; then she spoke to her neighbor, who, in turn, spoke to his, and all the guests began looking over at the youth and laughing. He decided he did not care; the girl with him was a beauty and dressed in exquisite taste, so he tried to appear indifferent. The prominent woman, however, knew him very well, so she ventured to send him a wee note which read, "Dear —, it certainly is sweet of you to take my maid out to dinner; but I can't quite see why you let her wear one of my best gowns."

RECEPTION TO GOVERNOR AT ANNUAL MILITARY BALL

First Regiment Infantry to Be Reviewed on Washington's Birthday at Armory—Prominent List of Patronesses for Event

GOVERNOR MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH will review the First Infantry, N. G. P., at its armory, Broad and Callowhill streets, on the evening of Washington's Birthday, when the regiment will hold its annual reception and ball which will be attended by at least 2000 people.

Society and military will be represented in the gathering, the affair having grown to large proportions. Officers of the United States Navy and Marine Corps stationed at League Island and the army stationed in and near this city as well as National Guard officers of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York, Delaware and Maryland will be in attendance. The Regimental Committee will attempt to please the spectators as well as the dancers.

The 1st U. S. Patrol, a crack Marine drill body, escorted by the 1st Mounted Guard, will give an exhibition drill, which will terminate by the formation of an American flag. This spectacular event will be accompanied by a military march for officers, members of veteran organizations and the two drill corps of the Shriners that will make a veritable kaleidoscopic effect by reason of the various colored uniforms.

Contrary to past customs, flags and bunting will be eliminated from the decorative scheme. The huge armory will be transformed into a forest scene, reproducing from the Malaga woods near the Rangeley Lakes. Carloads of balsam and spruce trees are being brought from Canada to be used in the reproduction of the scenic effects that will help the illustration of lakes, hills and woods.

The patronesses include Mrs. George E. Bartol, Mrs. Robert C. H. Brock, Mrs. J. Gardner Cassatt, Mrs. W. H. Donner, Mrs. George W. Childs Drexel, Mrs. Washington H. Gilpin, Mrs. Howard S. Graham, Mrs. James Large, Mrs. Arthur H. Lee, Mrs. Joseph Ledy, Mrs. Howard W. Lewis, Miss Maria Dickinson Logan, Mrs. Joseph B. McCall, Mrs. James Francis Sullivan, Mrs. Charlemagne Tower, Mrs. Churchill Williams, Mrs. W. D. Winsor and Mrs. J. Bolton Wippeny.

On the Reception Committee are Colonel Frederick Taylor Pusey, Colonel Thomas Biddle Ellis, Colonel P. Ward, N. G., N. Y.; Colonel W. Allen, Colonel W. H. Sayen, Brigadier General J. A. Mather, N. G., N. J.; Lieutenant Colonel C. T. Creswell, Lieutenant Colonel I. Price Ewing, Lieutenant Colonel J. C. Gilmore, Major Frank L. Mueller, Major Joseph M. Burroughs, Major Chas. S.
